

HOMES

Stop, parcel thief! And admire my stylish new high-security mailbox

NATIONAL POST STAFF | Feb 5, 2013 1:00 PM ET | Last Updated: Feb 4, 2013 12:05 PM ET
More from National Post Staff

Finally, a security system for your big mail. The elephantrunk parcel drop, new from Architectural Mailboxes, is designed to receive packages when you are not there to do so yourself, and to protect the boxes that land on your doorstep. The designer dropboxes are made from aluminum with heavy-gauge steel powder coating to provide maximum protection for document deliveries and birthday care packages alike.

Elephantrunk — which comes in red, white, black and bronze — bolts to the ground and can accommodate multiple packages, with a maximum dimension of 11.5 x 9.3 x 7.3 inches each. It is also possible to leave parcels for pick-up within the top portion of the mailbox, which retails for $249 at Home Depot.

For more information, visit architecturalmailboxes.com/elephantrunk.